A quiet quarter ahead

DT releases its Q2 result on Wednesday, 3rd of Aug. With supply chain issues prolonging DT's lead times and delaying customer demand, we expect Q2 net sales to decrease y/y and thus EBIT to experience a significant decline.

Net sales and EBIT to decline in Q2

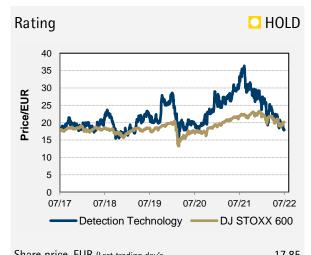

In June, DT downgraded its outlook for Q2'22 with a product quality issue in its supply chain and the challenges for the company and its customers to purchase other critical components. With the company now expecting Q2 net sales to decline y/y, our net sales estimate amounts to EUR 22.4m (22.5m cons.), representing a y/y decline of 4.8%. We expect SBU and IBU to see nice double-digit growth with SBU benefiting from the recovery of aviation solutions, but MBU to decline by 22%, driven by the above-mentioned factors. With a substantial decline in topline, we also expect EBIT to be below that of the comparison period and amount to EUR 1.8m (8.1% margin). The consensus estimate for EBIT is 1.8m.

Demand still on a good level, supply chain issues to ease

The outlook for H2 is brighter with the supply chain issues easing. Some medical OEMs have indicated that component supply would improve in H2'22, which is in line with DT's outlook, providing group-level growth. DT has also mitigated its exposure to component shortage and has modified its products so that the need for most poorly available components will be reduced during H2. With that, we expect the company to see strong 20% y/y growth in H2 driven by all BUs.

Valuation neutral ahead of Q2, but risks are elevated

DT trades with 22-23E EV/EBIT multiples of 18-13x. We find the current valuation quite neutral as with our estimates the company's valuation is roughly in line with its peer group (based on 22-23E EV/EBIT). However, the market environment contains multiple risks, such as the war in Ukraine, high inflation rates, interest rate hikes, and slowing economic growth and industrial activity which might affect DT's short-term performance. With our estimates intact, we retain our HOLD-rating and TP of EUR 20.0 ahead of Q2 result.

COMPANY DESCRIPTION: Detection Technology is a global provider of off-the-shelf and customized X-ray imaging solutions for medical, security and industrial applications. DT's product portfolio ranges from photodiodes to complete detector systems with ASICs, electronics, mechanics and software. The company was established in 1991 and it listed on Nasdaq First North Finland in 2015. The company is headquartered in Finland and has volume production in Beijing, China. Detection Technology has ~450 employees in Finland, China, France and USA, serving 370 active customers in over 40 countries.

INVESTMENT CASE: Demand for Detection Technology's detector solutions is increasing due to expansion of healthcare to a wider share of population in the emerging economies, aging population, growth in travelling and freight transport, urbanization, increased security concerns and increasing need for X-ray imaging applications in industrial inspection. We see investment case attractive due to strong market drivers, especially in China, as well as DT's compelling strategy and execution capabilities, which should enable DT to grow faster than the market and maintain above target level margins. Due to its proximity to the fastest growing market China and inexpensive valuation, DT could be also become an acquisition target.
