Need to start delivering

Innofactor's Q2 results were weaker than anticipated to a weakened billing rate and individual project delivery challenges. Improvement is needed during H2 to achieve the FY '22 guidance. Near-term operational capabilities are still of some concern, but the potential is still quite solid. We adjust our TP to EUR 1.25 (1.6), BUY-rating intact.

Top-line and bottom-line figures short of our estimates

Innofactor's Q2 results fell short of our expectations. A weakened billing rate and challenges relating to individual project deliveries resulted in a slight y/y decline in revenue to EUR 16.9m (Evli EUR 17.7m). As a result, the operating profit also fell to EUR 0.7m (Evli EUR 1.4m) for a rather meager operating profit margin of 3.9%. The order backlog remained at a good level of EUR 77.2m, up 6.1% y/y. During the quarter, Innofactor acquired Invenco Ltd, a company specializing in data and analytics, with some 50 employees and EUR 6m in annual revenue.

Improvement needed during H2

Following the weaker first half of the year, on our revised estimates, we expect Innofactor to be able to beat its guidance with a slim margin essentially thanks to the acquisition of Invenco. EBITDA-margins should return to ~12% during H2, a level that under current circumstances could be seen as a normal level for Innofactor. Despite the implied one-off nature of the project delivery challenges we are slightly concerned for the operational delivery capabilities and the revenue trend in relation to the order backlog growth. Still, the potential is still quite solid and with the acquisition of Invenco and a normal profitability EPS would on our estimates grow 30% y/y in 2023.

BUY with a target price of EUR 1.25 (1.60)

With our revised estimates and continued operational uncertainty, as well as declines in peer multiples, we adjust our target to EUR 1.25 (EUR 1.60). Our TP values Innofactor at a slight discount to peers. Upside potential is provided by the profitability improvement potential. We retain our BUY-rating.

Software/Finland, July 22, 2022 Company update

COMPANY DESCRIPTION: Innofactor provides software products and solutions to commercial, public sector, and membership-based organizations in the Nordic countries. It specializes in Microsoft-based cloud solutions and digital transformation. Innofactor has operations in Finland, Sweden, Denmark, and Norway.

INVESTMENT CASE: Innofactor has been showing promising performance after a few years of subpar performance, caused primarily by integration issues relating to its pan-Nordic platform. Focus in the near-term should still remain on actions to improve margins and sorting out challenges and capitalizing on its good order backlog. Good traction for Microsoft's enterprise solutions supports growth outlook going forward.
